First questionnaire

What is the aim of this questionnaire?

The aim of this questionnaire is to assess the current state of the art of national diabetes self-management education strategies in the European member states, USA, Taiwan and Israel. To achieve this objective we use the Global Diabetes Survey technology to bring together information about the existence and implementation of diabetes educational activities.

How to fill in the first questionnaire?

The questionnaire consists of 12 questions. Some will be answered with a rating scale (slide bar) others are answered by ticking a box. Please answer all questions. You do not have to answer all questions at once. You can continue at a later date. Answered questions are automatically saved.

Subsequent to this first questionnaire you will find the two other questionnaires where you can give information to educational training programs..

Second and third questionnaire - “Wikis” for educational training programs

The following two questionnaires are longer and determine the specifics of educational programs for people with T2DM and people at risk of diabetes/pre-diabetes. Appropriate to a “Wiki” database information of these programs should be collected conjointly. Please note that there is only one database for each diabetes educational program.

What are the aims of these questionnaires?

- To assess the variation of diabetes education programs in the European member states, USA, Taiwan and Israel to identify gaps and barriers in diabetes educational management
- To collect specific information regarding a particular program.
- To assess the contents and their implementation as accurately as possible
- To assess the quality and effectiveness

All information will be published as a compendium which will be available online at the conclusion of this research project. Anyone interested will have access to the program summary.

Who should answer the “Wiki” questionnaires?

Please answer the questions of Wiki only if you have detailed knowledge of diabetes self-management and prevention programs.

How to fill in the program wiki questionnaire

First, you will be asked for diabetes self-management education and prevention programs. Please fill in the name of the program. The database opens if the program is already included enabling you to view the choice of answers. You have the option to add and edit these answers.
